

Bristol-base for Tadmarton's Newest Appointment

Oxfordshire-based wholesale meat supplier

Tadmarton Products

(<http://www.tadmartonproducts.co.uk>), has once more expanded its sales team with the recent appointment of Bristol-based Alex Grosvenor.

Until January this year Alex, who has a meat wholesale background, was one of Tadmarton's suppliers. When Tadmarton's Sales Director Steve Harper learned Alex had been made redundant for the 2nd time in a under a year, he was quick to snap him up.

Alex Grosvenor will be covering the South West of England, in particular North Somerset, Wiltshire and Avon. As the former manager of Bristol's Weddel Swift depot which closed in 2009, Alex is a well-known figure amongst the region's butchers.

Alex has worked in the meat industry since the mid-1990s, having started out as a Saturday boy at the age of 14. He went on to gain hands-on butchery experience, before settling for a career in meat wholesale.

"Alex's appointment is part of Tadmarton's continuing growth, and his experience and local knowledge will be a great advantage," says Tadmarton Sales Director, Steve Harper. "He's got a sound reputation for delivering a highly professional service and that's just what the butchers in Bristol need."

Tadmarton Products is continuing with its growth programme and the company is expecting to announce further expansion to its product range and distribution service in the coming months.
